

Projected FY17 Sending District Tuition Payments to Commonwealth Charter Schools

This chart presents the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education's projection of how much money each of the listed school districts will lose to one or more Commonwealth charter schools in the current fiscal year (2017). "Net district payment" is the amount of Chapter 70 aid that will be diverted from the school district to pay tuition to one or more charter schools, minus the total amount of state reimbursement that the district will receive. (If a district is not listed, it is not currently sending any students to Commonwealth charter schools.)

For a detailed spreadsheet showing projected data on district and charter enrollment, tuition and reimbursement for FY17, go to massteacher.org/charterdata. Start with the "Overview" and "Guide to Columns" worksheets.

Share this information on social media and in conversations in your communities. Let people know what your school district could do with the money that is being spent on privately operated charter schools, or what has been cut since charter schools began siphoning funds from your district.
