

2017 MTA RETIRED GATHERING

Honoring a colleague — and her activism

By Scott McLennan

Although most of them are no longer in the classroom, the MTA's retired members are still having a significant impact on public education, as they showed when they attended a conference in Hyannis in October.

Now in its 16th year and expanded to a two-day format, the MTA Retired Gathering was held at the Cape Codder Resort on Oct. 17 and 18.

The event, organized by the MTA Retired Members Committee, offered those who attended numerous workshops and opportunities to socialize. The conference also demonstrated the many ways in which retirees are still contributing to public schools, colleges and universities.

A call had gone out in advance asking MTA Retired members to bring items such as soccer balls and jump-ropes to be donated to the Barnstable United Elementary School. As is the tradition at each gathering, a school or district is selected to receive items that the educators there say will benefit their students.

The Barnstable Teachers' Association wanted to emphasize the value of recess by making sure that students have equipment for games and activities. The retirees responded with an assortment of basketballs, soccer balls and kick balls (more than 60 in all), duffle bags to store the equipment and about a dozen jump-ropes, as well as classroom supplies and monetary donations.

HONORING SPRINGFIELD RETIREES

Another important annual tradition is the Honor Our Own award, which recognizes outstanding work by an active or retired MTA educator. This year the award went to the members of the Springfield Education Association's Committee of Retirees in recognition of their successful Tools 4 Teaching program.

The committee started Tools 4 Teaching in 2013 to collect materials from educators who were retiring or changing grade levels and getting them — at no cost — into the hands of colleagues who could use them.

The committee has expanded Tools 4 Teaching to the point where it leases space in a municipal building to house books, furnishings and many other useful classroom items.

SEA educators can visit the "recycling store" to pick up items when it opens twice a month. The committee also actively solicits donations such as pens, notepads and binders from private businesses and other sources to keep them from ending up in the trash.

“We wanted to help teachers, help students and help our planet,” said SEA retiree Chris Williams. The goal now, she said, is to see Tools 4 Teaching replicated in other districts.

Those recognized with the award were Nancy Meyer, Sue Fielding, Dawna Jenne, Carol Alminas, Chris O’Connor, Ronnie Tillman, Norma Alejandro, Jean Haley, Gail Healey, Linda Kingston, Mary Scherpa, Pat Sullivan and Williams.

REMEMBER TO ASK

Christine Blower, a leader in Britain’s recently constituted National Education Union, offered a keynote address that touched upon the valuable role of public education in a healthy society and the challenges facing trade unionists.

The NEU was formed from the merger of two large teachers’ unions, and Blower stressed the value of solidarity in accomplishing goals. “Ask not what your union can do for you, but what you can do for your union,” she said, borrowing from President John F. Kennedy’s famous quote.

Her comments also touched upon the MTA’s All In campaign. Blower said that membership in Britain’s trade unions has been completely voluntary since the era of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. One of the main guides her members use to ensure robust and active membership is titled “No One Ever Asked Me.”

“When we talk to teachers who do not belong to the union and we ask why, the most common answer is, ‘No one ever asked me,’” Blower said.

In emphasizing the importance of fighting for well-funded public schools and respect for educators, Blower stated: “Education is a human right, a civil right and a public good.”

WE NEED YOUR KNOWLEDGE

Richard Liston, chair of the Retired Members Committee, thanked conference attendees for their continued activism throughout the years, saying that many retired members are as active now in union initiatives as they were when they were in the classroom. He noted retirees’ continuing commitment to assisting new educators, giving a nod to a mentoring program between MTA retirees and student members.

“Massachusetts’ public schools are the best in the country because we did a great job,” Liston said, adding that retirees continue to support new and future educators. “Their success will be our success.”

Beverly Saccocia took a moment to remember Kathleen Roberts, a former MTA president and a longtime co-chair of the Retired Members Committee who died in September.

Liston also expressed the sorrow of many in the room for the death of Kathleen Roberts, his longtime co-chair on the committee. Roberts, a past MTA president and active unionist for more than 70 years, died in September at the age of 103. Many at the gathering signed a condolence book that will be given to Roberts’ family, and an MTA documentary, “Kind Kay,” was shown.

MTA leaders also addressed the gathering, acknowledging all that the retirees have done to build their union.

This is a crucial time to share wisdom with current members as the labor movement comes under attack, said MTA President Barbara Madeloni.

“As elders of the education and labor movements, you have experiences others do not have, and we need that knowledge,” Madeloni said.

She drew a comparison between the victory at the ballot box last fall that kept the cap on charter schools and the role that the MTA and other unions played in preserving prevailing-wage laws 30 years ago.

“It’s not about getting one win and then it’s over. It’s a way to live,” she said.

MTA Vice President Erik J. Champy told the retirees that they “set the tone for what it means to be brothers and sisters in an association.”

“You have shown us the value of standing shoulder to shoulder to fight for the issues important to our students, our colleagues and our communities,” he added. ■

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

Richard Liston

“Grieve not... nor speak of me with tears... but laugh and talk of me as though I were beside you”.

Kay Roberts was an amazing woman, who will be missed by so many. I was so fortunate to be her Co-Chair to the Retired Members Committee for many years. She led by example, always striving for better ways to enrich our lives. She was a friend to so many. We honor her daily by continuing to work so retirees can live with dignity.

Our Gathering was a great success. It was our first two day conference, but we will continue to evaluate and try to be bigger and better in the upcoming years. Your Committee has been working diligently to bring new and exciting events for all retired Members. This year we will have luncheons in place of our usual breakfasts.

Working with active members of MTA we will be part of the “ALL IN” and Raise Up Massachusetts campaigns. A successful mentoring program is underway with our student members.

I am so proud to be Chair of your Retired Members Committee, a group of dedicated individuals, who work so hard on your behalf. Please feel free to contact any of us with concerns or ideas. ■

UPDATE ON MTA LEGISLATIVE AGENDA

After a busy September on Beacon Hill, all of MTA's priority bills have now received a legislative hearing. Each bill is now being reviewed by its committee of jurisdiction, which will take into account the testimony offered by MTA and other stakeholders as it deliberates. Most committees have until February 7, 2018 to decide whether or not to recommend that a bill proceed in the legislative process. The only exception is the Joint Committee on Health Care Financing, which has until March 28, 2018 to report out legislation.

MEET THE NEW COMMITTEE MEMBERS

A highlight

John DeCicco

Leominster

I was a technology engineering teacher at Oakmont Regional High School. I joined MTA Retired to benefit from Retirement Plus, I feel it's important to stay active as a retiree so I can be a voice for our current educators and insure that this hard won benefit and many others stay in place.

Every educator should continue in MTA as a retired member to avail themselves of the great MTAB benefit programs, which can stretch your buying power and extend the value of your pension benefits.

Paul Mazut

Hi. My name is Paul Mazut. I live in a small town called Lee. It is in Berkshire County located in the western part of the state. I worked for the city of Westfield as a vocational teacher for 36 years. Working as a machine shop Instructor has allowed me to pursue a passion of restoring old cars, mainly Corvettes. I also make parts for the cars, which I sell to several restoration supply companies. During the year I travel to different parts of the country to judge early corvettes as a national master judge.

While I was still teaching, I was appointed to the Retired Members Committee as an active member. I really enjoyed it and wanted to stay involved during retirement. Being involved has allowed me to keep up with all of the latest issues pertaining to retirees and to fight for retiree benefits. I feel retirees should get involved in some manner as the benefits belong to them.

Julia Monteiro Johnson

South Dennis

I'm Julia Monteiro Johnson. I live in South Dennis with my husband, driver and traveling companion, Larry. We have four grown children, four grandchildren and one great-grandson. I have an M.L.S. and an M.S. in Instructional Technology. I retired from the Dennis-Yarmouth Regional School District in 2010.

I have served as a local president, NEA Director and MTA Director and on numerous committees. My involvement with the union is a serious commitment and a source of joy and pride. A highlight of my union involvement was receiving the Louise Gaskins Lifetime Civil Rights Award. I'm currently serving the first year of my second two-year term of the Retired Members Committee and was elected Vice-Chair. Thank you for re-electing me to serve you.

I had the opportunity to attend the NEA Retired Organizing Conference during my first term. The workshops were intense and informative. We've taken many of the successful ideas that were presented and have implemented them within MTA Retired. We are working diligently to increase our membership. We are working to have all delegate seats at the Annual Meeting filled every year. I am delighted that the recent 2-day Gathering was successful!

Please contact me with suggestions, questions or comments at 774-212-3100 or johnson.julia@comcast.net. If you haven't sent MTA your email address, please do so. Thanks.

Lois Powers

Quincy

Greetings! I am Lois Powers; I live in Quincy (although, now that I am retired, I like to say that my home base is Quincy because I am traveling – primarily in the U.S. – as much as I can.) I was the Career Resource Librarian at the University of Massachusetts Boston; I worked there for 25+ years. In addition to assisting students with their career research, I was the department's editor, buyer, paper pusher, writer (bi-weekly job bulletin, 8 to 12 pages), and "hostess with the mostest" at our events. Prior to my employment at UMB, I had the great pleasure of working on the same waterfront peninsula but at the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum since its opening.

Several years ago, I joined MTA Retired via the pre-retired opportunity because I had no doubt that I would want to continue to be part of 'the voice of education'. I have been fortunate in making so many friends, contacts and acquaintances in the MTA (and NEA) and I want to foster those relationships. Also, I truly believe in paying it forward so I plan to continue my activism on behalf of the MTA's Mission and I'd like to be available to 'sing the praises' of our organization. Lastly, the benefits available to me as a retired member of MTA are a huge plus! I use the heating oil and restaurant discounts regularly. Free or reduced tickets to museums, aquariums and some tourist attractions are available. The MTAB benefits more than pay for my MTA Retired membership several times over since I joined lifetime. Definitely a win-win!

WHY I AM AN MTA RETIRED MEMBER

Beverly Saccocia

I joined the MTA retired group to continue to be of service to the MTA, friends and students.

I originally started the process to get approval of ESPs to join my union. We prevailed and I served as the Bridgewater-Raynham Education Association Board of Directors Liaison for ESPs. I was chairperson of Negotiations with the Bridgewater-Raynham school committee representing ESPs.

At a later time, Anne Wass encouraged me to be more active and run for the MTA Board of Directors after I had already served six years on the MTA ESP Committee. I was elected to serve as an MTA Board member representing District 35-C teachers and paraprofessionals. I served for six year years.

I worked at the Bridgewater-Raynham school system for thirty years. After I retired last year, I wanted to remain active in MTA. I ran to become a member of the MTA Retired Committee but lost this year.

I will continue to be active in MTA Retired in any way possible and needed. I will again run to become a member of MTA Retired Committee but whatever the results are of that election, I will help, speak out, and volunteer to help out wherever I can help.

I love working with former officers of the MTA, Board of Directors members and new members and friends to help. I especially wish as one of my goals to encourage more MTA ESPs to join our group.

Highlights from MTA Benefits

Dental coverage. Dental insurance can be expensive and sometimes you find out that it doesn't even cover the services you need. MTA Benefits' program through United Concordia provides dental insurance at a low cost that includes implant coverage.

Group travel. Cruise to Cuba, roam the alleys through Venice, or take in the breathtaking views of Victoria Falls. In 2018, Durgan Travel is offering tours to Cuba, Italy, Ireland, China and the south of Africa. Space fills quickly, especially for tours that take place during school vacation weeks.

Take the trip of a lifetime with fellow MTA members!
